

Upcoming Virtual Forum

New Data, New Possibilities: Reimagining Workforce Insights with Washington's New Occupation Data

Thanks to groundbreaking 2020 legislation, Washington is now one of a few pioneering states collecting occupation data from employers for almost all Washington workers.

This investment by the state and Washington businesses unlocks vast potential to better understand our state's job landscape – like how workers move between jobs, how jobs are changing, and the intersections between education pathways and the labor market.

Join the Washington State Labor Council, AFL-CIO and the Society of Professional Engineering Employees in Aerospace, IFPTE 2001 for an upcoming virtual conference. We'll celebrate this leap forward, break down what it means for our state, and invite your ideas on how this information can help your organization make a difference.

Register now:

April 23, 10 am - 12:30 pm PST

Hosted virtually

Questions? Email kmunson@wslc.org

Speakers & Panelists

Leaders from the
Washington Employment
Security Department and the
Washington Workforce
Board

Vandana Slatter |
WA State Senator

Jon Furr |
Strada Education Foundation

Erica Groshen |
Former Bureau of Labor Statistics Commissioner

Bonnie Nelson |
*Gates Foundation -
Washington State Initiative*

Michael Schultz |
UW Evans School of Public Policy & Governance

Jeff Strohl |
Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce